Stone and Mercer Move Into Elegant New Store Opposite the Postoffice

Novel Window Cigar Stand a Feature of a Model Establishment.

Stone and Mercer, the Third street druggists, are now doing business in a newly furnished, elegant store at No. 108 on that street, opposite the postoffice, having moved there from No. 116 on the same street, which they had occupied for fifteen years.

The new store is equipped with droll mahogany and plate glass fixtures and presents an exceedingly attractive appearance. The fixtures were designed with the object of providing as much display as possible and this object the designer has admirably succeeded in attaining. Glass has been substituted for wood wherever practical, even the counter tops of the wall cases being of plate glass. While there is less woodwork than in the older style fixtures, there is enough of the mahogany to preserve a very pleasing unity.

One of the novel features of the store is a window cigar stand, which is the latest thing in drug store fixtures, similar ones having just been installed in the Dow drug stores in Cincinnati and in stores at Dayton, Springfield and Columbus, O. There is a single entrance door recessed in the front with large plate glass windows on each side extending outward, in one of which the cigar stand is situated, the entire space here being utilized for it. There is a small window in the front window glass through which customers may purchase cigars and tobacco from the sidewalk without entering the store. The fixtures here are all in droll mahogany and plate glass in keeping with the rest of the store.

There is of course a soda fountain, the same one which was in the old store, but it is new and fits into the scheme of the new store as though it were made especially for it. This is one of the late model sanitary fountains and its only counter is a beautiful piece of work. Droll mahogany tables, one being a telephone table for the convenience of customers, and chairs to match are scattered around.

The prescription department is entirely separated from the public part of the store by a mahogany partition reaching to the ceiling and to each side wall, there being solid swinging doors at the right and the left. The front of the partition is neatly arranged with plate glass shelves and doors for the display of toilet articles and the like.

New Drug Cabinet. One of the modern features of the store is the Swartz sectional system drug cabinet arranged above the prescription counter and in front of a partition in the rear. Instead of the rows of bottles upon open, dust-gathering shelves, there are superimposed units of boxes, or drawers, similar to a regular filing cabinet, which are pulled out and swung back, their contents being accessible from the side. Each drawer is labeled and numbered, drugs and liquids being classified, and each has two or more adjustable shelves suitable to the sizes of the containers placed in them. By means of this system, all the drugs and so forth are kept in absolutely dustproof compartments. The cabinets provide a great deal more space for drugs than the old style prescription cases.

To the rear of the prescription department, the floor has been sunk so as to provide a balcony, on which the firm's office is situated and on which also shelves give additional storage space.

The new store is a thing of beauty and a model of convenience, one of which the enterprising owners may well feel proud.

OFFER IS INCENTIVE TO BEST WORKERS IN TELEGRAM CLUB

This is "Opportunity Week" and It Means All the Words Implied.

To the best workers of the Telegram's 10,000 Club this week's offer should be an incentive to put forth the best efforts. This is not only an honor for you but the 100,000 certificate coupled with the amount of business you have to get in order to earn it, will have a great bearing on who wins the Overland car on July 29.

This is "opportunity week" and it means all those words imply—an opportunity for you if you grasp it. You who think over this can see where you gain thousands of votes free, that you will have to work for later on.

For every club of $25 you turn in this week you will receive a bonus ballot for 50,000 votes. These votes are in addition to the regular schedule.

Here is the best part of it—to the best working members of the club in each district we will give a certificate for 100,000 votes. To the next six in each district we will give a certificate for 50,000 each.

Equal to $25. The 100,000 certificate is equal to $25 worth of business. In other words this certificate is the same as $25 in gold. Votes are what you will have to have in order to win, and if you can get them without money, why not get them? We offer these votes for good, big business. Are you going to be one to accept this opportunity?

Are You a Member? Have you thought of the things that you could buy with $1,000? You could sell one of the big Overland touring cars for that amount or more, and just think of the many things you could buy for the money. This splendid automobile is familiar to the most of the people residing in the Telegram's territory, but to those who do not know about it, we would say that the Overland is one of the most popular cars in the world and more of them are sold in West Virginia than any other car at the prices. The Overlands which the Telegram selected to award to the best workers in each district are the new model 86 style, six cylinder, seven passenger touring cars, selling regularly at $1,145 f. o. b., the factory. These cars have electric lights and starters and every other modern improvement.

Pianos Fine Awards. Suppose you win a piano in the Telegram's big campaign. You would be awarded a beautiful Matchless Milton piano which sells regularly for $350 and which is the best value for the money on the market today. There are two of these pianos, one for the second club member in each district. If you finish third in either district, your prize will be a wonderful Edison Diamond Disc phonograph, the invention of Thomas A. Edison, which recreates the human voice as no other instrument can. The other awards which include two $75 diamonds, two famous Hoosier kitchen cabinets, eight Elgin watches and two Eastman Kodaks, are all good and well worth your time working for.

A Cash Commission. If you do not secure enough subscriptions to win one of the prizes, you will be paid a cash commission on all new subscriptions turned in. If you continue an active member of the club until the close. Remember, this is a spare time proposition and does not in any way interfere with your regular work. Clip that nomination coupon and enter the club today.

FIRST DRESS PARADE IS TO BE HELD TODAY

In Bukowina Where They are Apparently Being Little Impeded by Austrians.

CHARLESTON, June 24.—An order from the war department directs that Major John H. Allen, surgeon, United States army, stationed at El Paso, Tex., report to mobilization camp, near Charleston, for the purpose of examining the medical officers of the Second regiment, West Virginia National Guard, and qualify them to muster into the service the major officers and men of the regiment. Major Allen cannot reach here before Monday.

The resignation of Lieutenant H. F. Wahle, of the Second regiment, was accepted tonight, and he will be mustered into the federal service at Newport News with the rank of first lieutenant. He has been in the aviation camp of Hampton Roads, Va., graduating with honors today.

Recruits, popularly recognized as "raw," are not specially wanted in the national guard of West Virginia at this time. As many as can be used have either been accepted into the state organization or are waiting to be mustered into service at their home stations.

Preparation for Service. It is the purpose of the mobilization camp at this time to prepare the troops already enlisted as nearly as possible for active service and take them to the border at the earliest expedient time, and to fill the companies to maximum strength, with recruits would hinder the more experienced men in completing their preparation for immediate service.

Officers and men from both Williamson and Fayetteville have reported in sufficient numbers to complete Company F, which was not acceptable in the federal service under its old status. The commanding officer for the company has not been designated, but a selection is to be announced soon.

In one day the men in camp increased from 790 to 882 and forty-four more are waiting for call at their home stations. Most of these have service to their credit and were out of bounds when the call for mobilization was made. Some of the enlisted men came back to West Virginia at their own expense from various parts of the country. There is no shirking of duty by any of the men, but the wives of some of the officers and men have been bringing influence to bear on the adjutant general's department to promote the resignation of the former and the discharge of the latter. So far neither has been allowed.

Wallace Designated. A formal order was issued by the war department and received at camp today designating Major William Wallace, United States army, as mustering officer. He has been acting as such since the day after the camp opened. Major Wallace has been instructor-inspector of the state troops for two years, through detail from the regular service.

For the first Sunday in camp the program of work for the troops has been greatly shortened. The first dress parade of the camp is scheduled.

Women Visit Camp. Mothers, wives and sweethearts of the soldiers from throughout southern West Virginia have been visiting the camp for the last two days, reports being current that a movement to the border may be expected at any time. While many of the enlisted men are married, but few of them are disposed to take advantage of the fact to get out of the service. In nearly every instance they have arranged for the maintenance of their families back home and are waiting to do their bit in war. Some will accept discharge rather than be severed from hostilities for an indefinite period.

Lloyd Washburn, aged 72 years, a well known and prominent retired farmer of Good Hope, died suddenly at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. F. C. Greathouse, at Adamston. Shortly after arriving at his daughter's home he complained of feeling badly and it was only a few minutes until he was dead.

Local Companies Will Open Recruiting Office

On Third Street Monday and Big Parade is Planned for Tuesday Evening.

Local militia officers are busily engaged in recruiting men for the two local companies of the West Virginia National Guard and are meeting with excellent results and by Wednesday of next week both companies will be ready to muster into service if necessary with a full peace footing strength.

Company K, the old company, is already full up and has a number of extra men and would be able to reach the war footing of 150 men in a short time if necessary. Company A, the newly organized company, has passed the forty mark and Captain "Ted"

Powell stated Saturday night that if wanted he could fill his company with the overflow from Company K and that both companies would have the sixty-five men necessary for a peace footing strength.

In order to increase patriotism in the city and to encourage enlistments arrangements have been made by the captains of the two companies to open a recruiting office in the room on Third street recently vacated by Stone and Mercer's drug store and next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday officers will be in charge there to enlist any one wishing to join either company. On Tuesday evening the First Regiment Band and members of Company K and Company A will parade the streets of the city.

EMPLOYEES ARE TO BE GIVEN FULL PAY

By the Bell Telephone System although They Are Gone to the War.

Employees of the Bell telephone system who, June 18, were members of the national guard or naval militia, and who have been called into service by order issued in accordance with the proclamation of the president of the United States of that date, or who may be called into service by similar order, will be allowed full pay, at the normal rate in effect on that date in each case, during absence in such service not to exceed three full months and the fraction of the month in which called into service, and thereafter for a period not exceeding nine additional months, full pay at such rate less the amount in each case paid by the government. Such employees will also be considered for the purposes of the employees' benefit plan, as being continuously employed in the system while absent on such duty, and upon return from such duty, or after honorable discharge, will be given such employment as the needs of the service will permit and the employee is able and fitted to perform.

Owing to importance of our service to the government and public in time of war, the company must take care not to cripple it. Therefore the names of those who are willing to enlist hereafter will be noted and if subsequently desired by the government, we will aid in supplying skilled men for the particular service for which men specially trained are required. Those who hereafter enlist with the company's approval, will be treated in the same manner as employees who were members of the national guard or naval militia on June 18.

Further consideration, in due time, will be given to the matter of service beyond the period herein provided for.

In case the state or nation makes provision for dependents of the men in service or the situation is otherwise substantially changed, this arrangement may be modified as, in the judgment of the companies, the changed condition may warrant.

THREE EX-GOVERNORS

first ballot," he declared, "was for the Prohibition party in 1890, when I voted for General Neal Dow. I have voted the straight Prohibition ticket ever since." In 1912 and in 1916 Mr. Baldwin was delegate to the general conferences of the Methodist Episcopal church. He is married, has two daughters and he concludes "that is all any honest man ought to know about myself."

But few Prohibitionists, it is said, have been as active in politics as William P. Ferguson. As editor of one of the most powerful of the party publications he has become known far and wide as a fighter, a militant Prohibitionist. Had he not become a Prohibitionist and a publisher he would have been a preacher. Mr. Ferguson was born fifty-five years ago in the Catskill mountains, New York. "I began life as a foreign missionary," he said, "but I retired to take up the real fight for humanity in American politics." Scotch-Irish in ancestry and belligerent by necessity (according to his admission), Mr. Ferguson, it is declared, has become the Mars of his party.

Not many years ago he toured South America. He entered a crowded theater one hot night in a metropolis near the tropic of Cancer. A woman was singing the songs of nations. When she mentioned the United States the audience howled and jeered. The woman purposely garbled "America" and trailed the Stars and Stripes under foot. Ferguson arose, stalked down the aisle, pulled a revolver from his lumbar region, mounted the stage and forced that woman to sing and walk straightly. Then he asked the audience if it wanted "to start something." They did—started for the outside and good health. "And they're going yet," said one who knows Ferguson and his way.

In business and politics of the higher planes Frederick W. Wheeler is accorded leadership. He has been a dealer in furniture and realty, banker and financier and Prohibition party candidate for many offices. Born in 1859 in Oakbrook, Wis., he early showed remarkable perception. It is said, of civic and commercial affairs. His youth was in Vineland, N. J. In 1882 he established a retail furniture business in Albany, N. Y., which he conducted until his removal to Los Angeles in 1898. Prior to his withdrawal from business in Albany he established a bank there and assisted in organizing the chamber of commerce. In 1893 he served on the committee of fifty of Albany to purify elections. For five years he was chairman of the New York Prohibition state committee. He has been party candidate for mayor, council, legislature and both houses of Congress. Mr. Wheeler was delegate to six national Prohibition conventions and in 1908 was candidate for president. He has been a delegate to the national board of trade, national deep waterways convention, Hudson river deep water convention and national bankers' convention.
